

COME WALK WITH ME FOR INDEPENDENCE A Life Worth Living!

In support of The Independent Living Centre London & Area
Saturday, June 25, 2011 • Greenway Park, London • 11:30 am to 4:00 pm

Dori is a vital part of our community. Her active life includes weekly exercising at the YMCA and attending our Friday exercise classes, scrabble club, doing artwork and dance and volunteers at Storybook Gardens in the summertime. In 2010, Dori won a major prize in our Come Walk with Me for Independence walkathon for bringing in the most pledges. There are hundreds more in our community who would enjoy the same kind of independence as Dori if they knew it were possible. Partner with us so we can reach every person with a disability and show them a world of opportunities!

Why support The Independent Living Centre London & Area?

Canadians with disabilities have many skills and limitless creativity; they have determination and the desire to contribute to all aspects of their communities. These undiscovered talents and hidden resources should be tapped into, so that not only people with disabilities benefit, but all Canadians do also.

The Independent Living Centre London & Area provides the resources, information and support so people with disabilities can learn from one another, discover solutions and be self-advocates.

We work to empower people with disabilities and help remove barriers so they will have opportunities to make their own choices, contribute to our community and gain the self-respect we all deserve.

This vision of independent living is one in which everyone wins. Dori, along with so many others, will have the opportunity to reach her full potential.
